

Terese Coe

Sweep

The wind is full of faces but unlike duller air it sets itself on chases and leaves its quarry bare.

Hurricanes have fought their way to waste and death and if they can be caught it's only in our breath.